GETTING AROUND

GETTING TO MONACO...

■ BY CAR

Monaco is situated between Nice and Menton. You can get to the Principality via the national roads or the motorway. There are several different routes available depending on the time at your disposal and your circumstances.

MOTORWAY

A8/ E80 autoroute (motorway) known as "La Provençale" connects the Principality to France, Italy and the rest of Europe.

- From Italy there is a single, toll free exit to Monaco: N°58 "Roquebrune - Monaco - la Turbie". Take the Vista Palace Hotel (D.51) slip road, continue on the Moyenne Corniche (D.6007) coast road and come into Monaco via Beausoleil.
- From Nice, Cannes or Saint-Tropez, there are two motorway exits to the Principality. Exit 56 takes you directly to the Principality via the Moyenne Corniche, via a section of the A805 motorway. This is the fastest but also the busiest route, so expect slow moving traffic! Exit 57 takes you through the village of Turbie and then back down on to the Moyenne Corniche. When you reach the Avenue de la Victoire du 8 mai 1945 junction, turn right and carry on towards Cap d'Ail. Finally take the avenue Prince Rainier III; and come into Monaco along the Boulevard du Jardin Exotique.

ROUTES

From Nice

Although slower than the motorway, there are 3 beautiful coast roads to delight tourists. There are 3 very different routes.

• "Basse Corniche" (D. 6098)

Lower coast road between Nice and Menton serving Monaco. From the coast take the D. 6098 along Boulevard Carnot. Enjoy an unimpeded view of the Rade de Villefranche from the Boulevard Princesse Grace de Monaco. Continue on your route as far as Villefranche-sur-Mer. At the junction with Boulevard Napoléon III, take one of two famous routes crossing or following Beaulieu-sur-Mer famous, like Saint-Jean-Cap-Ferrat, for its sumptuous Belle Epoque style residences. Carry straight on as far as Cap d'Ail. Go into Monaco along the avenue du 3 septembre.

• "Moyenne Corniche" (D.6007)

The most popular route which takes you from Nice to Monaco in 40 minutes with sublime views of the Mediterranean. Make sure that you slow down. Speed traps are situated on the Corniche André de Joly (50 km per hr speed limit) and the Avenue Bella Vista (70 km per hr speed limit). The latter has one of the most beautiful views of Beaulieu-sur-Mer, the Saint-Jean-Cap-Ferrat peninsular and Rade de Villefranche between Villefranche and Eze-Village. On the way down to Monaco, the A8 autoroute slip road joins the Route de la Moyenne Corniche. Go along avenue Prince Rainier III, pass through Cap d'Ail before coming into the Principality on the Boulevard du Jardin Exotique.

• "Grande Corniche" (D.2564)

The longest and highest route to get to the Principality, via La Turbie and the Col d'Eze, at an altitude of 512 m. If you are not pressed for time, take this stunning, breath-taking route. From the Moyenne Corniche, turn off at Villefranche on your left. Travel along the Parc Forestier Départemental de la Grande Corniche (Departmental forest park) and look out over on Eze-Village, Beaulieu-sur-Mer, the Saint-Jean Cap Ferrat peninsular, the Rade de Villefranche and enjoy the view as far as Nice airport.

Once in the heart of the village of La Turbie, you can go down into Monaco via the Route de Cap d'Ail. Enjoy another sumptuous view from the winding roads immortalised in a host of films. At the end of this road, join the Moyenne Corniche at Cap d'Ail, then come into the Principality via the Jardin Exotique (Tropical garden).

From Menton

Other than the motorway, the easiest way is via the coast road. You will also drive through Roquebrune Cap Martin which will give you an opportunity to explore the villas on the route du Cap – an option which is pure tourist heaven! Further along, carry on until you reach the D.6098 which takes you to the Eastern entrance to the Principality, in the Saint-Roman district, above the famous site where the famous tennis tournament takes place.

Monaco-Ville city access restriction

Access to Monaco-Ville is restricted to users of vehicles registered in Monaco and in the Alpes-Maritimes. For the new French registration plates, only vehicles bearing an Alpes-Maritimes territorial identifier whose owners can provide proof of residence in the department will be authorised to access Monaco-Ville.

Registration certificates must be presented to the officer that controls access to the place d'Armes, at the foot of the old town (known as "le Rocher"). Other vehicles must make their way to the "parking des Pêcheurs" car park which has a pedestrian walkway into Monaco-Ville which takes just a few minutes.

■ BY CAMPING-CAR

Although it is possible to access the Principality by camping-car, this means of transport is not the most appropriate. Parking is prohibited on the public highway. Only the Parking des Ecoles (tel.: +377 98 98 81 83) in the Fontvieille district can accommodate this type of vehicle, in limited numbers and access is only possible outside of major events. It is advisable to arrive before 10am in order to find a space. It is possible to reserve in advance in writing to the public car parks department:
